GOVERNMENTAL IDEAS

OF HONOR

President Wilson, on several occasions, notably in his War Message of April 2 and in his reply to the peace note of the Pope, has called attention to the fact that no peace can be maintained with the Imperial German government; that no autocratic government such as it can be trusted to keep faith; that only free people can hold their purpose and their honor steady to a common need, and prefer the interest of mankind to any narrow interest of their own.

The President was only restating a difference between two systems of governmental policy, two different governmental ideas of national honor, that has long existed. The quotations given below show the American idea of a nation's honor from the inception of this government down to the present day and the idea of national honor held by the German government since the days of Frederick the Great.

"The foundations of our national policy will be laid in the pure and immutable principles of private morality. There exists in the course of nature an indissoluble union of virtue and happiness, between duty and advantage, between honest policy and public felicity. The smiles of heaven can never be expected on a government that disregards the eternal rules of order and right, which heaven itself has ordained."—George Washington, President of the United States, April, 1789.

"We are at the beginning of an age in which it will be insisted that the same standards of conduct and of responsibility for wrong done shall be observed among nations and their governments that are observed among the individual citizens of civilized states."

—Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, April, 1917.

"We are now in a state of necessity and necessity knows no law. Our troops have occupied neutral Luxembourg and perhaps already entered Belgium territory. This is a breach of international law. The wrong, we hereby commit we will try to make good as soon as our military aims have been attained. He who is menaced as we are, and is fighting for his highest possession, can only consider how he is to hack his way through."

The German Chancellor addressing the Reichstag, August 4, 1914.

The German Chancellor was simply following the key note given by Frederick the Great speaking in 1740: "The question of right is an affair of ministers. Take what you can; you are never wrong, unless you are obliged to give back."

Contrast the American and German standards of national honor. The honor and good faith of the American government from Washington's day to Wilson's are back of the Liberty Loan Bonds. Well may they be called the safest investment on earth—the premier security of the world.

CONTROLLING PEACH TREE BORERS

The peach tree borer lives most of its life as a worm embedded beneath the bark of the tree, usually just below the surface of the soil. Here it starts as a very small worm, eating away the life of the tree, getting larger and larger until it undergoes a change into a pupa and then a moth, which lays eggs for more worms to carry on their destructive work on the peach trees. The moth lays the eggs on the trunk and branches of the trees during the summer—most of the eggs being laid during July, August and September. The eggs hatch in from 10 to 15 days and the young borers enter the trees. By frost the borers have all entered the trees and some will be very small while others are nearly full grown.

Draw the soil away from the trunk of the tree to a depth of four inches, or until the roots are exposed and search for the tunnels. With a sharp knife follow these tunnels until the worms are found, and then kill them. The presence of a mass of gum at the base of a peach tree usually indicates the presence of borers. This gum is thickened wax which escapes where the tree is injured. There may be a number of borers in a single tree. The worker should get at least all the large ones before leaving a tree. The smaller slender white worm is often found in the sap. This is not the peach tree borer and it does no damage to the tree, but lives on the sap. Where borers are abundant, worm the trees again in the spring. Also get rid of old worthless peach trees, practice clean culture in the orchard, and keep the bearing trees vigorous.

Peach tree borers do a great deal of damage and many people have abandoned the growing of peaches because of them. However, they can be controlled successfully if the proper effort is made.

There is a suspicion that Hindenburg is the honorary president of the "Keep the American Navy at Home" league.

Cramps!

Says Mrs. Frank Hagler, of Carbondale, Ill.: "I was suffering terrible cramps and pains each month. I had used... but it didn't give any permanent relief. The pains came back on me just the same as before. After taking Cardui, I was entirely relieved from the pains, and have never been bothered with them since."

Cardui
The Woman's Tonic

Cardui should help you as it did Mrs. Hagler, as it has helped thousands of other women who suffered from the pains and discomforts from which women suffer. Many medical authorities prescribe the ingredients of which Cardui is composed for the female troubles for which it is recommended. Why not try it for your trouble?

DIED

On Sunday, Sept. 23, 1917, the angel of death came into our midst and plucked from us one of our fairest, brightest flowers, taking away William Marcus Smith, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Smith, of Coffman, Mo., age one year and nine days.

His death was due to acute gastritis. He had been ailing all summer, but was taken seriously ill Tuesday, the 18th, until death called him away. He leaves a broken-hearted mother and father, grandparents, several aunts and uncles and a host of friends to mourn his death.

We think of death as parting, but let us think of it as meeting, and strive dear parents, to meet him on the other side.

The funeral took place on Tuesday morning, Sept. 25th, at 9 o'clock at S. S. Philip and James church at River Aux Vases, where funeral services were held by Rev. T. C. Boehleman, after which the body of our darling baby was conveyed to the Potosi cemetery and laid to rest. The large concourse of relatives and friends attested the love they bore him.

The Lord said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

We miss our darling baby, We all did love so well, But up above we'll meet him Where the good forever dwell.

Sad—too soon the calling Of dear William, loved by all; We little thought our baby Would so early hear the call.

A precious one has left us; A voice we loved is stilled; A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled.

We knew when babe was smiling, Reaching out with dimpling hands, He saw the face of Jesus there And we said: "babe understands."
